Dr. George A. B. (G.A.B.) Addy, MD, FACS, FRCSC

CMA President, 1933-34
McGill University, 1890
General surgery

A Past President of the New Brunswick Medical Society, Dr. Addy practised surgery in Saint John, NB, for more than 40 years before retiring in 1935. He was a busy man at the Saint John General Hospital. “He served the hospital as intern, superintendent, bacteriologist, pathologist, junior and senior surgeon, chief surgeon and commissioner of the hospital’s Board of Government,” a colleague wrote in CMAJ following his death in 1945. He added: “He was a doctor’s doctor and a man’s man [and] a good citizen. His philanthropies were many, and mostly hidden, and his surgical adeptness was too well known to need repetition here.” Dr. Addy was awarded Senior Membership in the CMA. He died in 1945.
