Dr. LeBaron Botsford, MD

CMA President, 1874
Glasgow University (Scotland), 1835
General practice

Dr. Botsford practised in Saint John, NB, for most of his career. After he died in 1888, his niece published a memoir about him that stated: “A doctor for near half a century, he lived and laboured for the good of men. Though called to watch the sick bed of the rich, and earn the fee for care and 'tendance due, he never shrank at all unseemly hours from waiting on the poor man’s couch of pain, and seeking to alleviate the ills that human nature is foredoomed to bear.” His obituary states that he spent 25 years as an attending physician at the Marine Hospital in Saint John. He died in 1888.
