Dr. Henry H. Chown, MD, MRCS

CMA President, 1900
Queen’s University, 1880
General surgery

Dr. Chown was a leader in medical education in Manitoba, where he served as Dean of Medicine at the Manitoba Medical College for 16 years and was named emeritus professor of medicine upon his retirement. “It was largely under his wise guidance that the college became in 1917 the Faculty of Medicine at the University of Manitoba,” CMAJ wrote following his death in 1944. “It would be difficult to exaggerate the contribution made by Dr. Chown to the cause of medical education in the Canadian west.” A building at the University of Manitoba was named in his honour after he died.
